New commercial GEOINT strategy emphasizes greater persistence, advanced analytics

NGA roadmap leverages established, emerging commercial GEOINT providers

SPRINGFIELD, Va. — The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency announced today its commercial GEOINT strategy which outlines the agency's plans to deliver commercial geospatial intelligence products and services to customers by leveraging greater persistence from its traditional and new and emerging GEOINT providers.

"This is an exciting time for GEOINT," said NGA Director Robert Cardillo. "Innovators in industry are developing remarkable capabilities and services that will offer a wealth of unclassified data sources and new opportunities. NGA will strengthen its partnerships with innovators to explore new ways to access, analyze and evaluate data in support of diverse customer needs."
