NGA announces award of $652M Erebus IDIQ

SPRINGFIELD, Virginia – The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency today announced the award of the Erebus indefinite delivery, indefinite quantity contract to Lockheed Martin with a ceiling of $652 million.

The Erebus, formerly CAOS II, contract provides development and sustainment for the integration, operation, maintenance, modernization and development of the GEOINT workflow and is the primary suite of capabilities used to develop and deliver imagery analysis.

Contract performance will be based primarily out of Deer Creek, Colorado, with additional work in Littleton, Colorado; Augusta, Georgia; Herndon and Springfield, Virginia; and St. Louis, Missouri.

The contract has a seven-year ordering period.
