

NGA NATIONAL GEOSPATIAL-INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

Command Master Chief Jason Reynolds Senior Enlisted Leader

Command Master Chief (IW/SW/AW/EXW/SS) Jason Reynolds currently serves as the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency's Senior Enlisted Leader. In this capacity, CMDCM Reynolds advises the NGA Director on the effective utilization of all military services members; carries the Director's vision, mission, and intent to the workforce; focuses on NGA's People Strategy; builds partnerships across the Joint, Interagency, Multi-national environment; and is the liaison to Senior Enlisted Leaders assigned to the National Capitol Region, other Combat Support Agencies, and the Combatant Commands.

A native of San Antonio, Texas, Reynolds enlisted in the Navy in 1997 and attended basic training at Recruit Training Command Great Lakes, Illinois. He attended and graduated from the Nuclear Machinist Mate "A" school in Orlando, Florida, before completing his training at the Nuclear Power Training Unit in Ballston Spa, New York.

In 1999, Reynolds reported to the submarine USS Kentucky (SSBN 737), where he completed multiple patrols before being transferred to the Trident Refit Facility in 2001. In 2004, Reynolds reported to Information System Technician (IT) "A" school. He then reported to the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk (CV 63), where he completed several deployments throughout the U.S. Indo-Pacific Command (USINDOPACOM) and supported Operation Enduring Freedom. In 2007, he advanced to chief petty officer and reported to Navy Personnel Command in Millington, Tennessee, as the IT E-5 and below detailee. During this tour, he completed an individual augmentee assignment with an embedded training team in Afghanistan.

Reynolds reported to the Naval Special Warfare Group (NSWG) 1 Mobile Communications Team in 2010. There, he applied and was accepted into the Command Senior Enlisted Leadership (CSEL) program and completed his first CSEL tour. Reynolds subsequent CSEL tours include Helicopter Sea Combat (HSC) 15, HSC 3, USS Dwight D. Eisenhower (CVN 69), a joint environment tour at Naval Medical Forces Development Command, and most recently the Office of Naval Intelligence.

Reynolds' professional accomplishments include graduating from the U.S. Navy Senior Enlisted Academy, the Command Master Chief/Chief of the Boat (COB/CMC) course, the Advanced COB/CMC Course National Defense University KEYSTONE Joint Leadership Course and completing the New Flag and Senior Executive Training Symposium (NFLEX). He earned his bachelor's degree in management of information systems technologies, graduating summa cum laude. His personal awards and decorations are consistent with other senior enlisted members of the U.S. military.